GERMANY AND AUSTRIA REPORTED STARVING

Despite Little Complaint There Is Great Suffering in the Central Nations

PEOPLE CRUSHED BY HINDENBURG HEEL

Correspondent Says Internal Conditions Are Much Worse Than is Known

By William Philip Simms

(Copyright 1918, by the United Press)

Berne, Switzerland, Feb. 16—Hindenburg is squeezing Germany like an octupus a sponge. Even if there is little complaint in the army over the food, Germany and Austria are starving.

I just heard a most remarkable story illustrating the case in point, which was reported at both the British and American war offices.

A German officer, through an intermediary, approached a man with whom he was personally acquainted. A meeting was arranged aboard a boat on Lake Constance. Punctually, the acquaintance and the officer kept the appointment.

The German officer offered to sell Prussian military secrets for $20,000, the allies to judge their importance before paying. The acquaintance closely questioned the officer, who was of high rank, concerning his motives.

The officer broke down and wept like a child, declaring his mother and father were old, poor, broken in health and unable to get substaining food. He wanted the money in order to send his parents to a neutral country.

After which he would return to the front and try to get killed. If he failed, he would commit suicide.

As America and England had not acted a tthe expiration of the officer's short leave, the matter was dropped. The incident shows the trend of events.

The situation was bad six months ago, it is infinitely worse today.

The last cabbage crop was a failure. Next to the potato, the cabbage is the German masses' standby. Like an Egyptian plague, caterpillars destroyed the crop, stalk and all. It is said that a wind blew butterflies from France, producing the devastating army of caterpillars.

The plum crop likewise was a failure, owing to the weather. The Germans boast a plum tree for each man, woman and child. Marmalade is one of the mainstays of the masses. Now there is practically none.

The last grain crop was below normal, despite reports to the contrary. It was due to lack of nitrate for fertilizer. Practically all nitrates, principally manufactured out of the air, are used in explosives. Bread is therefore shorter than ever. It is not only mixed with potato flour, but with a powder made from turnips, carrots, chestnuts, etc., from which the poisonous by-products have been chemically extracted.

The German people have a saying, "the very stars fight against us."

Dogs are eaten to such an extent the breed has practically disappeared in certain districts. Crows are becoming a delicacy. Fats are almost totally lacking. The weekly fat ration some time ago was 62½ grams, including lard, butter, etc. The American child spreads on its after-school tart more butter than the entire week's ration in Germany.

I have heard again the story that corpses are reduced for fats. Two nurses claim to have seen the process. Whether it is true or untrue, the story refuses to down.

The beer famine is growing. This is equally as great a blow to the masses as the bread famine. The Bundrat reduced malt allowance for the brewing year to thirteen percent for Bavaria and ten percent for North Germany, as against 35 percent last year.

German Bohemia is suffering intensely. The death rate is appalling.

Poland is famine-swept. Cracow and the vicinity have been drained of every mouthful, which has been sent to other parts of Austria and Germany, regardless of the most primary needs of the district. Women carrying starving babies parade the streets demanding bread and peace.

Pillaging and wrecking are common occurrences, while troops from other parts of the empire steadily shoot the demonstrators down.

Hindenburg is squeezing Germany and Austria dry to keep up the army. This army, he and Ludendorff propose to feed into the maw of another offensive.

The masses are already asking the "why" of it all. The Hindenburg party replies with promises of an early, miraculous peace.

But the handwriting is on the wall. Nothing short of a miracle can prevent disaster to the kaiser's crowd when the duped masses demand a reckoning.

GERMAN TROOPS BEING HELD ON EASTERN FRONT

Hindenburg Orders Transfer to Stop On Account of Brest-Litovsk Failure

ITALIAN DISPATCH TELLS OF NEW MOVE

Bolsheviki Kill Lingering Hope Of German Leader to Make Successful Drive

Rome, Feb. 16.—Germany has countermanded her transfer of troops from the east to the west front, because of failure of the Brest-Litovsk peace negotiations, according to a dispatch from Russia, published in the Idea Nazionale today.

New York, Feb. 16.—The Russian Bolsheviki have killed any ligering hope that may have existed in Germany of Von Hindenburg's ability to conduct a successful major winter offensive against the British and French lines along the west front.

The immediate concern of the German general staff has turned from the west to the east. This is not because Von Hindenburg fears a Russian offensive, but because the Bolsheviki defeated at Brest-Litovsk the Von Hindenburg peace diplomacy. Von Hindenburg and the militaristic clique that surrounds him are now in defensive before the German people, as far as concerns the Russian situation.

SITUATION IN ARGENTINA IS AGAIN NORMAL

TRAFFIC REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN RESUMED FOLLOWING DECREE OF FORCED ARBITRATION

Buenos Aires, Feb. 16.—The railway situation in Argentina was normal today, following President Irogyens decree of forced arbitration of the strike. Cereal shipments are still held up by the strike of port workers and steamship crews.

The second general railway strike in Argentina within a few months was called suddenly a week ago and was signalized by extreme violence. Tracks were dynamited and food supplies and munitions burned. United Press dispatches later reported the strike had been frustrated because British and Italian workers refused to join the demonstrators, fearing the strike resulted from German propaganda.

STRIKE IN EAST GROWS, WILSON PROPOSES BLOW

President Wilson On Trail of The Solution of a Difficult Situation

THREE FOLD PLAN IS NOW SUGGESTED

Proposition to Discredit Labor Leaders and Permit Standard Wage

Washington, Feb. 16.—As the walkout of wood workers in eastern ship yards grew rapidly today, President Wilson prepared a definite proposal to end the strike.

The president is expected to drive at the heart of the trouble and appeal to the loyalty of the men in getting them back to work while the government gets its program for ship workers on a working basis.

New York, Feb. 16.—Marine wood workers in 20 ship yards adjacent to and on New York harbor walked out early today, according to John Stuart secretary of the Marine Wood Workers' union.

As fast as the men can be called from their work by agents of the Marine Wood Workers' union, ship yards in the district of the port of New York are being denuded of their workers.

Forty ship yards had been visited at ten o'clock this morning, according to John Stuart, secretary of the union, and between six thousand and seven thousand men had laid down their tools.

A hope that a patriotic plea to the men by Chairman Hurley of the shipping board would save the situation and stave off action failed today apparently when the wood workers walked out. President Hutchenson's of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, in the city, received a telegram from Hurley asking delay, but was unable to act.

Realizing the demand of housewives of the nation for daily information that their purchases may be made to best advantage, Messrs. Davis & Kishlar have decided to meet the changing conditions and will serve the public with this desired news.

That this sort of live store news is widely appreciated has already been demonstrated beyond question in Ypsilanti and The Press attributes its steady increase in circulation of late to the increasing store news that enables readers to save much more on their purchases than the paper costs for a year, leaving the news each day a gift without cost.

AMERICANS ARE OPPOSITE BIG HILL MONT SEC

Sector is Visible From the City Of Toul, Information is Permitted Today

MACHINE GUNS DOT THE WHOLE SECTION

Place is Named Gibraltar By Sammies, Quote Fitzsimmons in Speaking of Drive

By J. W. Pegler

With the American Armies in France, Feb. 15.—(Delayed)—The American sector is opposite Mont Sec, a great hill looming like a hump on the horizon, visible from the city of Toul, it is permissable to announce today.

Mont Sec is dotted with enemy machine gun nests and observation posts. The Sammies are already calling it "Gibraltar" but a Pittsburgh lad quoted Bob Fitzsimmons' famous saying "the bigger they are the harder they fall."

The hill is a short distance within the enemy's lines and affords observation of our territory like a perpetual sausage balloon. The American artillery periodically touches up the machine gun nests on it.

Mont Sec is about three miles north of Xivray, the town where the American soldiers were recently captured in a German raid. It is about ten miles due east of St. Mihiel and 20 miles north of Toul.

It is known in trench land, of course, that President Wilson has rejected the Austro-German peace feelers. But men and officers alike are disposed to leave discussion of international affairs to those back home—their present and immediate task is to back up the president's words with rifle and bayonet.

"We are working hard but we're not boasting," declared a noted major general, in discussing the situation with the United Press today.

"We are not without appreciation of what has been done by others and what remains for us to do.

"What the American armies have done in the past means nothing—it's what this army does that counts now."

Today was bright, clear and cold. A freezing wind served to partially dry up the mud in the trenches and afford a welcome relief from the wet and sogginess the men have been experiencing.

The sector was the quietest it had been in 48 hours, as regards artillerying. Airplanes flashed constantly through the sunlight. A sausage baloon hung lazily in the rear of the American sector. Mont Sec, the immediate objective of the American "hate" loomed huge across the German lines.

The boches are said to have attempted to take advantage of the breeze blowing toward the American trenches to give the Sammies a taste of gas. After hours of alertness American sentries heard a suspicious humming from the enemy trenches, accompanied by a suspicious smell. This led to a report that Fritz was loosing a gas cloud.

One man, believed to have been gassed, was sent to the hospital, but his condition is not serious.

In addition to the gas cloud, the Germans fired gas shells, which oosed a banana-like odor. These did no harm. Every Sammy on the road, whether marching toward the trenches, driving a ration wagon or goading machine gun mules, wear a gas mask in an alert position, ready to snap the elastic over his head the instant an alarm is sounded.

Far back of the lines, where rolling detonations and rattling windows were the only war-like sounds, the wounded in the hospitals were ready to don masks, which were hanging within arm's reach, suspended from nails at the head of each cot.

Perhaps the boches' gas won't amount to much in the face of all the anti-gas equipment now supplied the Sammies, but the boys aren't taking my chances.

TURKS LIKE TONE OF U. S. SPEECH

Amsterdam, Feb. 16.—"President Wilson's speech offers the possibility of further development, if Turkey's territorial integrity is not restricted and its sovereignty preserved," Talaat Pasha, Turkish Premier, declared in an interview with a correspondent of the Neue Treie Presse.

"Premier Lloyd-George's speech does not allow the possibility of discussion."

PUT BAN ON PROFITEERING, SAYS LABOR

President is Expected to Drive At the Heart of Trouble, Appealing to Loyalty

MEN LEAVE TWENTY-TWO NEW YORK YARDS

Patriotic Plea of Shipping oard Chairman Fails to Stop The Movement

By Robert J. Bender

Washington, Feb. 16.—Facing one of the most complicated and difficult labor situations in the history of the country President Wilson today sought a solution which would send back to work thousands of ship workers threatening to hold up construction in eastern yards.

Discontent of labor—becoming more and more widespread—is due primarily its leaders declare, to inefficiency and profiteering in some of the big yards—Hog Island for example.

Wage scales, which differ in different yards and which permit some war workers in the same city to make more than others, is another cause for the unrest.

Activity of William Hutchenson, chief of the Carpenters and Joiners, is held responsible by many labor leaders for the present difficulty.

The solution of the trouble, the labor men say, is three-fold:

1. Let the government establish a standard wage.

2. Cut out the profiteering at the root (citing the Hog Island situation as a leading example).

3. Discredit such leaders as Hutchenson of the carpenters.

And in addition, the government, it is stated, should immediately improve transportation facilities so that materials will be delivered prmoptly to the yards, eliminate idleness among the workmen—and if this can't be done, see that the men are paid if they are forced to idleness by lack of materials.

How these proposals can best be worked out—and quickly—is the tremendous problem before President Wilson today.

Conscription of labor is talked of but not seriously considered now. The president, is considering a personal appeal to the strikers.

Officials, including President Wilson, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, and Secretary of Labor Wilson were concerned over a settlement at once inasmuch as every minuate's delay is just so much of a contribution to German victory.

While the government sought to head off the very serious situation which the strike would involve, other crafts threatened to join sympathetic or independent strikes. A serious unrest was evident in allied shipbuilding trades.

The president is prepared to go far to settle the trouble inasmuch as it means so vital a setback to American war plans.

If it cannot be handled otherwise, government operation is a certainty. In any event, the president and Chairman Hurley are determined that there shall be no long tie up of this vital portion of American war work. But before conscription of labor comes, there will be sharp action toward employers in some plants.

ELECTRIC COMPANY LOSES IN FIRE

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Firemen early today extinguished the blaze that caused $500,000 loss in the Pugh Terminal Warehouse here. The Western Electric company reported working on government contracts, lost heavily. Federal authorities are investigating a theory of incendiarism.

GIVE DEALERS CHANCE, SENTIMENT OF COUNCIL

Aldermen Are Inclined to Let Coal Dealers of the City Try Once More To Convince Public That They Are Sincere In Efforts to Get Coal Here

Charges of Discrimination and Refusal to Invest in Coal Prompts Vote To Invite Commissioner Harrington To Keep at Work and Accept Pay

"Give the dealers a chance."

That was the sentiment of the city council in special session Friday evening to consider plans for insuring the supply of fuel necessary for Ypsilanti during the remainder of the winter.

The outlook for next winter was also considered and, according to big dealers, who are in position to buy as much coal for one yard as would probably be handled here in a season by all dealers together, the fuel situation will be worse next winter than it has been at any previous time unless unforeseen measures are taken to bring relief and better shipping facilities.

But while the city council is giving the dealers a chance to show that they really have the interests of the city at heart and that they can supply the city with a sufficient amount of fuel, Commissioner Harrington will keep in touch with the situation. The city owes a great deal to Mr. Harrington according to reports made at the meeting Friday evening. Aside from the time he has given the work of getting coal into Ypsilanti and distributing it, he has actually paid out $1,000 or more in expenses for which he has received no re-imbursement from the city. The council feeling that the fuel troubles are not all past yet for Ypsilanti and that Mr. Harrington should not be asked to continue this work without some little payment, voted to offer him $300 for continuing the work he has started through the months of March and April.

Discrimination Charged

The greatest complaint brought before the council was that dealers in handling coal without check of any kind discriminate in favor of their best customers while needy families suffer. Three prominent residences were mentioned within a few rods of the city hall where big loads of coal were hauled from a dealer who refused to fall in line with the city plan of equal rights and no favors, while coal was being taken from basements of other residents to meet the needs of families less fortunate financially and families with little children and no fuel in the house to keep them warm.

This is the sort of thing the city hopes to guard against in keeping Mr. Harrington in office. But more important than this, perhaps, is the need of a man in the coal business who can or will get the coal to Ypsilanti. Reports show that nearly ten thousand dollars in profits has been practically given dealers of the city during the past cold months on coal brought here through efforts of Mayor Brown and Mr. Harrington and Lee and Wesley Dawson and other residents and business concerns who place interests of Ypsilanti in the foreground in time of a crisis.

One dealer who has handled a good share of this coal has stated that he has not brought a pound of coal into the city this season, yet car after car has been turned over to him. He added on the $2.00 a ton allowed by the government and fifty cents to two or three dollars a ton for delivering, according to the quantity delivered at a load, and collected in the revenue with no worry about investment or credits.

City Not In Business

The city is not in the coal business and it has no desire to assume such responsibilities, but according to expressions of aldermen it will not be long before the city does go into the coal business if dealers fail to get coal here or to at least prove their sincerity in trying to get it here.

There is a technicality with regard to legal right of the city handling coal for profit, but City Attorney Daggett pointed out that conditions were such that there is practically nothing now to prevent immediate steps if the council desires to take them.

Fill Bins Early

Before considering that phase of the situation, however, a campaign will be started as soon as difficulties for this winter are past, to get bins filled wherever possible for the coming winter. The plan is to leave this matter entirely to local dealers with exception of publicity which is to be taken care of by the city. (Just why the city should pay the publicity expense while the dealers take profits from the coal was not explained. The point was not raised. It may be later).

Further the plan provides for a canvass of homes of the city about the last of May in order to get an accurate estimate of the amount of fuel that is to be needed ,and then if there seems to be reason to doubt that dealers will take care of the situation satisfactorily, the council will take no further steps. If, on the other hand, the dealers are slow in getting coal here or indifferent in order that they may reap a long profit next winter as some seem to have hoped to do this winter, then the council will go into the coal business and go in heavily.

No Source of Supply

One trouble confronting dealers seems to be the fact that most of them have no dependable source of supply. Their purchases in the past have often been made from several different concerns in small lots so that now in time of a crisis there are larger buyers ahead of them so far as standing goes with the operators. Whatever aid the city can give local dealers in overcoming this difficulty will be gladly furnished and dealers are assured of every other possible assistance so long as they show an inclination to get coal here.

The meeting was rather long and developed somewhat heated remarks at times, but the general sentiment prevailing was that: First—the city must have coal if it is possible to secure it, and second: The city must get it if dealers fail.

VETERANS HAVE WASHINGTON HOUR

OBSERVE BIRTH DATE OF LEADER IN FITTING PROGRAM AT HALL FRIDAY EVENING

Washington's and Lincolon's birthdays were fittingly celebrated Friday evening by the W. R. C. who had as guests in the hall on Pearl street, the G. A. R., Daughters and Sons of Veterans and invited guests.

Following a supper that was amply bountiful and delicious, although not deviating from the suggestions of Hoover, there was a program of speeches, music, recitations, etc., that was carried out under the direction of Mrs. James Kimball and that will long live in the memories of those who were privileged to be a part of this patriotic circle.

Speeches were given by Rev. Thornton Denhardt, acting pastor of St. Luke's church, Rev. C. G. Morse, pastor of the Baptist church and Justice M. B. Stadtmiller.

Mr. Denhardt's subject was "Washington and Lincoln," and he characterized the men as being of the very highest type of Christian manhood. Both learned early to seek Divine wisdom and guidance in their plans and Divine comfort in all their trials both personal and national. Both lead lives that were fitted to become models, Washington as the "father" of his country and Lincoln as the savior, with duties devolving upon them so manifold and responsibilities greater than in any other administration up to the present, have been able to challenge the reverence of all parties and principles and nations.

Mr. Morse's topic was "Present

Where Coal has come from and to Whom Ypsilanti is indebted

Here is a confession with two sides. Mayor Brown made it. After they had heard it members of the city council Friday evening offered a vote of thanks to Mr. Harrington, Mayor Brown and Alderman Dawson. At the request of Alderman Dawson and Mayor Brown their names were omitted and the vote of thanks recorded for Mr. Harrington.

The confession in substance was this: During the past few weeks two men in this city, Mayor Brown and William Harrington, have been mighty busy. Mr. Harrington especially has worked long and strenuously and Sundays have not always been excepted. There have been mistakes, (According to Mayor Brown neither he nor the fuel commissioner profess to be perfect) but they were mistakes such as sending soft coal when some one wanted hard, duplicating orders, sending out coal of poor qaulity because it was the best the city could get and mistakes of other minor importance when considered in light of the fact that many cities had much less coal than Ypsilanti and that at no time was there actual suffering here.

For their services, however, no one received payment except Mr. Harrington who received about $5.00 a car on a part of the coal brought in. This amount was nothing like expense involved, one check alone that he paid, being over four hundred dollars.

The other side of this confession is where all the coal Ypsilanti has had came from and who got it here. Following are some interesting figures:

Commissioner Harrington has brot in 54 cars.

Mayor Brown 57 cars.

Lee and Wesley Dawson 40 cars.

A public corporation has loaned 51 cars.

Normal College 5 cars.

Water Works 1 car.

Peninsular Paper Co., 1½ cars.

Crown Fender Co. ½ car.

O. E. Thompson & Sons, 1 car.

Hay Press Co., 9 cars.

Citizens contributed 35 tons from their bins and a quantity more was supplied by the Oak Knitting Co., Michigan Ladder Co., and the city schools.

It is apparent from these figures why a vote of thanks was extended Mayor Brown, Alderman Dawson and William Harrington.

Business is the very life of the community. It rests on mutual credit, confidence and good will. It cannot thrive in an atmosphere of distrust or fear for the future. Whatever helps business helps Uncle Sam. The smiling face and the cheery word will work wonders for you and for business.

Your Clothing Dollars

Stretch to the very limit of productiveness in THIS LIVE STORE.

Remember that at the start of last season the wholesale prices were, in some instances, higher than our retail prices, and that while our retail prices have remained stationary, wholesale prices have steadily advanced and that before many months have passed the "decreased supply" of good clothes will be causing as much worry as the "increased cost."

These facts form the strongest possible reason why you should take advantage of this exceptional opportunity. Even though your present clothing needs be plentifully supplied, you can't make a better paying investment than by taking care of your future needs NOW at these present low prices.

FORT MOURNS LOSS OF CAPT. CASTLE

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 16.—This city today mourned the loss of the "greatest aviator in all the big Texas flying fields"—Captain Vernon Castle, famous dancer and British airman who was killed yesterday in serving his machine away from another plane driven by a cadet.

The funeral of Captain Castle will be conducted from a local undertaking chapel at 2 o'clock this afternoon with full military honors.

Officers and cadets who were his comrades will attend in a body and form an escort. The body will be sent to New York for burial. It will be accompanied on its last journey by a detachment from the Royal Flying Corps, of which Castle was a member.

Army officials and civilians alike today pronounced Castle "a true soldier who had made a most noble sacrifice to save the life of a comrade."

A subscription to erect a monument here to the famous flyer's memory was well under way today. It was started an hour after Castle was killed.

Day Issues." He said every American should appreciate the legacies of the two great men who have gone before. Both were not only men of zeal and straightforward executive ability, but big enough to put men into the places of the nation who could see the objective. In touching upon the food conservation problem, he saw the solution in the abolishing of the liquor manufacturing. A glowing tribute was given President Wilson and it was predicted that before the close of this year that the nation would be found equal to the position she is now in and that she will nobly and triumphantly meet all the responsibilities.

The address was a splendid one and was roundly applauded as were all the other program numbers.

Justice Stadtmiller pictured true patriotism in the living up to the demands of the government and he warned against the narrow criticisms which are arresting the aims of the allies. He predicted before the end of the year the overthrow of Teutonic power. His prospects of the administration were flattering and his hopes of the country sanguine.

W. W. Keylon read a magazine article entitled "If Lincoln Were Here Today," and prefaced the reading with some well chosen remarks.

Delightful vocal numbers were contributed by Mrs. Wm. Deubel, Mrs. Max Robbins and Kenneth Bassett, little Wilma Keylon gave the flag salute; Mrs. George Fosdick gave an artistic interpretive war reading and "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America" were sung by all as opening and closing numbers. Miss Eugenia Mereness was accompanist.

Mr. Morse and Mr. Denhardt were voted honorary members of the G. A. R. by a unanimous vote of that organization.

The supper committee consisted of Mrs. Deubel, Mrs. Wm. Simms, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Maria Thompson, Mrs. Lamb, Mrs. Ainsley, Mrs. Jenks and Mrs. Placeway.

Mrs. Fosdick extended an invitation to all members of the organization who were present and the visitors to attend an at home to be given by the Daughters of Veterans next Friday evening at her home on East Michigan avenue. Her mother, Mrs. J. W. Garty will be one of the hostesses on this occasion.
